TRADITIONAL range

The Traditional range of digging and cultivating tools has been created by combining modern and natural materials to create a timeless classic.

We offer two great options. Mirror polished Stainless Steel heads for reduced soil adhesion or hammer finish epoxy painted carbon steel heads for improved resistance to scratches, humidity, and alkalines in the soil.

Both the stainless and carbon steel options have weatherproofed hardwood handles, and create an attractive, highly functional range of tools for those gardeners who prefer the 'Traditional' look.

A tough tool to tackle tough root problems

Spades and forks are designed for tilling and cultivating soil. Yet they are commonly abused, and used for prising and levering out tough, often tangled roots. At best, that can seriously weaken a spade or fork. At worst, the spade or fork can break altogether, as the leverage applied is transferred to a trapped blade or single tine.

The new Spear & Jackson Root Breaker provides a better alternative.

The Elements range of digging and cultivating tools is now established as a firm favourite thanks to its appeal to those gardeners seeking a range of tools offering value for money without compromising on quality, durability and appearance.

The combination of a hardened carbon steel head and lacquered ash handle made this range the ideal choice for incorporation into the Spear & Jackson "Grow Your Own" programme, which has further increased the popularity of these lines.

A tough tool to tackle tough root problems

Spades and forks are designed for tilling and cultivating soil. Yet they are commonly abused, and used for prising and levering out tough, often tangled roots. At best, that can seriously weaken a spade or fork. At worst, the spade or fork can break altogether, as the leverage applied is transferred to a trapped blade or single tine.

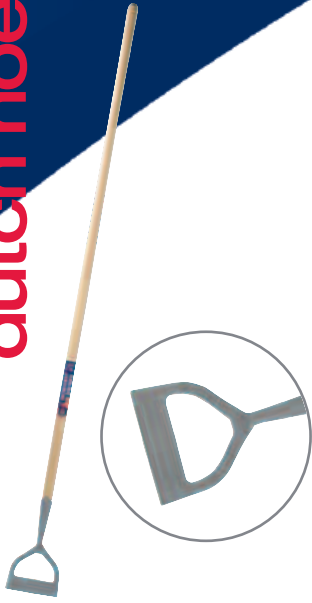

The new Spear & Jackson Root Breaker provides a better alternative.
